PN-10 NO. 1 FOUND BY FLIGHT CRUISER; ENTIRE CREW SAFE

Naval Seaplane Located in Caribbean Water; Engine Disabled.

NO. 2 RECEIVES ORDER TO PROCEED TO GOAL

Unofficial Figures Show Non-stop Flight 26 Miles Short of Rodgers' Mark.

24 SHIPS AND 2 PLANES DIRECTED TO SEARCH SEA

Aviators Are Picked Up 22 Miles West of Original Line of Trip.

Panama, Nov. 24 (By A. P.).—The Coco Solo naval station reports that all on board the seaplane PN-10 No. 1, which came down in its flight from Norfolk to Colon between Jamaica and Swan Island, are safe.

(By The Associated Press.) The PN-10, No. 1, missing navy seaplane attempting a nonstop flight from Norfolk, Va., to Colon, Panama, has been found, the Navy Department was informed last night.

The cruiser Cincinnati found the machine with a connecting rod broken on her starboard engine at 9:35 p. m. on the Caribbean sea 213 miles south of the Isle of Pines, between the island of Old Providence Island, the next to the last leg mapped out for the flight.

The exact position of the plane was given as latitude 17°54 and longitude 82°24.

On board the plane are Lieuts. Byrion J. Connell, and Lawrence W. Curtin, pilots, Skiles R. Pope, aviation pilot, and John R. Roe, radioman.

Other Plane to Proceed. Admiral Edward W. Eberle, chief of naval operations, immediately on receiving word that the PN-10, No. 1 was safe, 14½ hours after her last position report was picked up, advised the commander of the aircraft squadron of the scouting fleet aboard the U. S. S. Sandpiper, and the cruiser Raleigh, guardships, to authorize Lieut. Comdr. H. T. Bartlett, flight commander to proceed with his flight in the PN-10, No. 2.

Bartlett had been forced down earlier with an exhausted oil supply at Nueva Girona, Isle of Pines, and he proceeded to Sigüenza bay on the island to await more oil.

The message authorized him to continue his flight when ready and after the guardships, which had been searching for the No. 1, had returned to their positions.

With the finding of plane No. 1, the Navy's attempt to eclipse previous long distance seaplane records ended successfully. Had the planes reached Colon, they would have traversed 2,060 miles, breaking the 1,841-mile distance record, established by the late Commander John Rodgers in 1925, from the Pacific coast to Hawaii. Another objective was to establish the practicability of long distance scouting.

Both Had Motor Trouble. Motor trouble, due mainly to lubrication, forced down both planes. The No. 1 broke a connecting rod after having reported early today that its oil was heated, while the No. 2 landed with its oil supply exhausted.

The Cincinnati several hours after midnight radioed that she was standing by No. 1, and would tow the plane into Colon with the coming of daylight.

Navy Department officials, hopeful to the last that the PN-10 No. 1 would reach her goal, virtually abandoned hope at 9:30 p. m., when they ordered a thorough search for the plane by the combined naval forces in the Caribbean sea.

Eberle, chief of naval operations, dispatched the following message to Rear Admiral G. C. Day of the Fifteenth naval district at Colon and the commander of the aircraft squadron of the scouting fleet aboard the cruiser Cincinnati:

"Direct all available vessels to report to the commander of the Cincinnati, Capt. T. L. Johnson, in connection with the search for the PN-10 plane No. 1."

"Cincinnati is to conduct a searching operation and is to report action taken and also the last known definite position of the plane."

The order released about 24 naval vessels in the Caribbean sea for the search. Two planes available at Colon also were included in the order. The vessels are scattered throughout Guantanamo bay and off Bluefields, Nicaragua.

Rear Admiral Day at 7:20 p. m. sent this message to the Navy Department: "No information concerning the whereabouts of the PN-10 No. 1. Not heard from or seen by the U. S. S. Swan and not heard from by naval district radio."

TRAPPED IN MINE 9 DAYS, 5 MEN ARE FOUND ALIVE

Sixth One, Entombed by Rush of Water, Believed Dead; Search Goes On.

RESCUED IN GOOD SHAPE

Hazleton, Pa., Nov. 24 (By A. P.).—Five of the six men entombed nine days ago by a flood in the Tomhicken mine of the Lehigh Valley Coal Co. were taken out alive tonight and will spend Thanksgiving with their families.

All except Charles Smith were rescued. He was some distance below the section where they had been working on the day of the accident. Whether he is alive or dead was not determined, but it was feared that he was drowned.

The rescued men are:

Henry Kirchdoerfer, assistant foreman; August Yenick, Michael Lawrence, John Gonsora, John Lorincz.

The imprisoned men were found at 7:40 o'clock. The rescue caused great excitement in the little village, and all through the Lehigh coal field. The men were found in an old breast of the No. 8 tunnel, and not No. 16, where they were supposed to have been.

Kirchdoerfer, when the flood occurred, called to the men who had been damming up water in the No. 16 slope, turned and ran up an old travel way to No. 8 east old gateway. There they found their way blocked by a fall and climbed into an old breast which was above the water level.

As they sat there they watched the water rise as the flood reached its crest and then gradually receded as the pumping operations proceeded. How long they sat there they could not tell. Frequently they threw stones into the water and were able to tell in this way that the flood was going down.

Underwood Praises Smith for President

Birmingham, Ala., Nov. 24 (By A. P.).—Senator Oscar W. Underwood here today lauded Al Smith as a Democratic presidential possibility, scored the Ku Klux Klan and gave his reason for quitting the Senate. He thinks Gov. Smith is the best man the Democrats can nominate, and it is his opinion if Smith is nominated he will be elected.

The Ku Klux Klan is "fast going the way of the Know Nothing party and the old A. P. A.," he declared.

Senator Underwood is retiring from political life because he "is out of line with the trend of political thought" and because his views no longer coincide with those of his Democratic colleagues.

MEXICO ASKS LATIN UNION AGAINST U. S.

Government-Controlled News Service Circulates Plea in Central America.

(Special Cable Dispatch.) Managua, Nov. 24.—The Mexican government-controlled Ariel News Service today broadcast in Central America a long message advocating Latin-American unity, attacking the United States, and intimating that Mexico is privileged to intervene in Nicaragua as well as in Washington.

The word "Ariel" is taken from a book by Jose Enrique Rodó, a Mexican, which favors Latin-American unity and denounces the United States.

The Mexican government has already donated radio stations to Guatemala, Salvador, Costa Rica and Honduras. Only Nicaragua refused the offer of a station and Central Americans are receiving news broadcast free from Mexico, featuring a daily Ariel message.

The Central American liberals are siding with Mexico, while many conservatives are silently supporting it, and Guatemala unquestionably is rapidly becoming Mexicanized, as witness the establishment of a Mexican embassy and the Mexican-controlled daily El Excelsior, with others, subsidized, publishing special Mexican editions. One is printing serially the Mexican constitution, and all are appealing to the Central American liberals.

MEXICO IMBROGLIO FAILS TO PERTURB LEADERS IN SENATE

Borah Sees No Need for Break in Relations at This Time.

STATE DEPARTMENT AND EMBASSY SILENT

Swanson Believes Southern Republic Will Keep Faith on Recognition.

The State Department, in the light of developments following the publication of the diplomatic correspondence with Mexico—revealing an impasse between the two nations in the construction of the Mexican land and oil laws and the intimation that United States recognition may be withdrawn—has gone further than any senators are willing to go.

Almost as if by agreement the cancellations of the two countries declined yesterday to amplify the positions taken by them in the published state papers. There was no intimation on the part of the State Department as to what the next step might be, on the ground that diplomacy could not concern itself with hypothetical questions.

Neither the text of the correspondence nor the underlying motives—if the State Department has communicated these to any of the senators—seemed yesterday to give those members of the upper branch of Congress, who would comment publicly, the feeling that a situation of more than ordinary gravity had arisen.

Mexican Note Delivered. Other senators, who gave lack of time for study of the documents as their reason for not commenting publicly, failed at the same time to place themselves even in an unofficial accord with the State Department.

There were, as far as could be learned, no active steps in the matter taken yesterday. Secretary Kellogg visited the White House morning and afternoon, but did not, it was stated, discuss the situation with the President. Ambassador Teller called at the department during the afternoon to deliver the official copy of the last Mexican note, but did not go beyond formal presentation.

What unity was shown by members of the Senate in public and private comment was indeed a disposition to let the State Department and Mexican government find the key to the situation. In addition to this there was some agreement also that the admittedly difficult situation would not of necessity lead to a break nor would this be considered advisable.

Both Senator Borah and Senator Swanson, ranking Republican and Democratic members, respectively, of the foreign relations committee, emphasized their belief that no "break" in relations between the two countries would result.

Borah Sees No Ultimatum. "I do not think there is going to be any break with Mexico," said Senator Borah. "I hope not. A break would not help matters in the least. Mexico is seeking to work out certain property problems, to change the nature of property, as it were, in Mexico. And the State Department is seeking while this process is going on to protect the property rights of American citizens. Undoubtedly emphatic language has

Turkey Donors Killed On Their Way Home

Altoona, Pa., Nov. 24 (By A. P.).—Andrew C. Wright, 60, and his sister, Miss Emma Wright, 61, were dead today in their mountain home at Everett, the indirect result of their thoughtfulness in providing a Thanksgiving dinner for their sister. Both were killed in a crossing accident yesterday while they were en route home from the Everett postoffice, where Miss Wright mailed a chicken to Mrs. Harry Peters, of Altoona. Their automobile was struck by a Huntington and Broad Top train.

St. Stephen, N. B., Nov. 24 (By A. P.).—Every building in town was jarred by an earth tremor at 2:30 p. m. today. There was no property damage.

Eastport, Maine, Nov. 24 (By A. P.).—Tremors believed to have been caused by a slight earthquake were felt here today. They were accompanied by a rumbling.

The shock was felt in Perry, Pembroke and other nearby places, some of which reported slightly greater intensity than was felt here.

Capital to Lead Nation In Giving Thanks Today

President and Mrs. Coolidge to Attend Church—Diplomats to Join Colorful Annual Pan-American Mass. Buyers Ignore High Turkey Prices.

In a serene quiet, reminiscent of that historic day in old Plymouth 305 years ago, the National Capital will observe another Thanksgiving today. The outlook is for cloudy weather, a heavy church attendance and a gastronomic record for almost everybody.

It will not be entirely a holiday for President Coolidge if he follows his custom of other Thanksgivings days. In the past he usually has passed part of the morning in his office, and it is expected that this morning he will put in some work on his annual message to Congress.

Shortly before 11 o'clock the President and Mrs. Coolidge will attend the Metropolitan Memorial Methodist Episcopal church, where Thanksgiving day services will be conducted and a sermon preached by Bishop William Fraser McDowell. Accompanying them will be Mr. and Mrs. Frank W. Stearns, guests in the White House.

The most colorful and significant of all religious services today will be the annual Pan-American mass in St. Patrick's Catholic church, Tenth and G streets northwest, which will begin at 10 o'clock. Archbishop Michael J.

Curley will be the celebrant, and many diplomats, high officials and distinguished guests will attend. In the evening the President and Mrs. Coolidge, with Mr. and Mrs. Stearns, will sit down to an old-fashioned Thanksgiving dinner in the White House. The table will be graced by a 24-pound turkey, sent by Gov. Baker, of Missouri. This one was selected from among four sent by admirers of the White House occupants.

Turkey prices were about 5 cents higher than they were last Thanksgiving, but that did not discourage buying. Dealers at Center market reported a virtual sell-out. The prices ranged from 50 to 65 cents a pound, with 60 cents the average. Those at 50 were what the trade refers to as "culled" small, shriveled birds. Those at 60 were "prime" birds, while the 65-cent variety were classified as "extra fine."

Charles H. Walleigh, assistant superintendent of Center market, expressed the opinion that the comparatively high prices were due to the fact that many producers decided to hold their fowls for the Christmas trade. As

Marconi, Inventor, Seeking Annulment of His Marriage

Prenuptial Understanding for Separation Whenever They Wished Is Ground—Couple Wedded 21 Years—3 Children Were Born to Union.

Rome, Nov. 24 (By A. P.).—The sacred rota tribunal has begun proceedings in the plea for annulment of the marriage between William Marconi, noted wireless inventor, and the Hon. Beatrice O'Brien, daughter of the Fourteenth Baron Inchiquin.

The couple were married in 1905 and the marriage was dissolved in 1924. Three children were born to the union. The cause presented for nullification lies in a condition established between Marconi and his wife before the wedding, that they could separate whenever they so wished. Marconi, according to the Catholic Church being from its very nature indissoluble, such a condition would make the Marconi marriage null in fact.

Application was made to the curia of Westminster, London, for a declaration of nullity and the court of this diocese heard the case and granted nullity. The sacred rota now must pass on Westminster's decision.

Sensor Marconi himself declined today to make a statement on the action of the Westminster curia or the possible action of the sacred rota. He was received in private audience by the Pope, with whom he discussed his recent inventions. The pontiff presented him with a gold medal and blessed him, expressing fervent good wishes for the success of his experiments and inventions.

Later Marconi visited Cardinal Gasparri, papal secretary of state, remaining with him nearly an hour.

Plans Mile Descent In Cylinder at Sea

New York, Nov. 24 (By A. P.).—William Beebe, director of tropical research for the New York Zoological society, said today that he expects to set a new record in ocean exploration by going down 5,000 feet in a heavy steel cylinder with thick glass windows. His plans still are indefinite, depending largely on the outcome of experiments he will make this winter off the coast of Haiti.

Mr. Beebe said a German once went down 125 feet in a calson similar to the one he expects to use.

Gen. Fechet Shoots Big Mountain Lion

San Antonio, Tex., Nov. 24 (By A. P.).—Brig. Gen. James E. Fechet, assistant army chief, returned from a hunt today with the skin of one of the largest mountain lions ever bagged in Southwest Texas. The lion was killed along the Mexican border between Eagle Pass and Laredo, where it had been preying on livestock.

Robber and Victim Both Shot to Death

Fairhaven, Mich., Nov. 24 (By A. P.).—Louis Dulpie, one of the proprietors of the Vernier hotel, and an unidentified robber are dead following an exchange of revolver shots early today when three men attempted to rob the hotel office. Two of the hold-up men escaped.

CARPENTER'S STORY IN HALL-MILLS CASE FOUGHT BY SIMPSON

Trial Halted for Holiday With Legal Battle Still Undecided.

SCRATCHES ON FACE OF WIDOW NOT SEEN

Ministers Contradict Testimony of Hearse Driver and News Photographer.

Somerville, N. J., Nov. 24 (By A. P.). Clouds of argument hanging over the Hall-Mills case during the afternoon today came to a head just before adjournment and sent the trial into eclipse over Thanksgiving in a legal storm.

Efforts by the defense to use Henry de la Bruyere Carpenter as a witness to discredit Mrs. Jane Gibson's story, told as a State's witness, precipitated a clash of lawyers that was not decided when court suspended for the holiday. Carpenter, a New York broker, is a cousin of the three defendants on trial and is under indictment with them for the murder of Mrs. Eleanor R. Mills. He is awaiting a separate trial.

The defense plan to place in the record and before the jury his statement that he was not on Phillips farm or near De Russes lane on the night of September 14, 1922, when Mrs. Mills and the Rev. Edward W. Hall were slain, drew emphatic protest from the State.

Justice Charles W. Parker, presiding, took the problem of the competence of the testimony away with him, a decision being expected Friday when court reconvenes.

He is Not Defendant Now. The State's objection was based on the fact that the witness is not a defendant in the present trial, although under indictment with the other defendants. Mrs. Frances Supervise Hall, widow of the slain clergyman, and her brothers, Henry and Willie Stevens. Another point stressed by the State was that Mrs. Gibson did not place Carpenter at the scene in her examination testimony, but under cross-examination.

Insistence by the defense that the testimony is competent included a claim that the fact of Henry Carpenter's photograph has been identified by a State witness as one of the men at the scene of the double killing, left an opportunity for him to show a divergence in the story by his testimony.

The jury was sent from the room during the somewhat heated discussion of the lawyers. Carpenter had answered only a few questions when his examination was suspended to give the lawyers the floor. He had said that he was not at the murder scene, as stated by Mrs. Gibson, and had not been in the home of his cousin, Mrs. Hall, for several months prior to the death of her husband.

Experts' Stories at Issue. The afternoon session was started with an exchange between State and defense counsel over cross-examination of fingerprint experts who testified yesterday for the defense.

The result was a postponement of the cross-examination scheduled for this afternoon, of J. H. Taylor, Frederick Sandberg and Gerhard Kuhne, defense experts.

C. W. BUHLER FATALLY HURT BY AUTOMOBILE

Sculptor Dies in Hospital of Injuries; Walked Into Side of Machine.

Charles W. Buhler, 78 years old, widely known sculptor, of 1236 New Hampshire avenue northwest, was fatally injured yesterday afternoon when he walked into the side of a moving automobile on M street near Twenty-first street northwest. He died two hours later in Emergency hospital.

Boyd Helip, 40 years old, 1214 N street northwest, driver of the automobile, was arrested and later released to appear at an inquest today at 11 o'clock. Policeman Shockey of the traffic bureau, who tested the brakes on Helip's automobile immediately after the accident, reported that he found them faulty.

Witnesses of the accident told police that Buhler, who was crossing M street about 40 feet from the intersection of Twenty-first street, apparently did not see Helip's car, which was proceeding at a moderate speed, and walked into the side of it. He was knocked down and received a fractured skull.

After the accident, reported that he found them faulty. Witnesses of the accident told police that Buhler, who was crossing M street about 40 feet from the intersection of Twenty-first street, apparently did not see Helip's car, which was proceeding at a moderate speed, and walked into the side of it. He was knocked down and received a fractured skull.

Senator Lenroot testified that Fall told him and Senator Smoot that McLean advanced the money, when they visited him at the Wardman Park hotel where he was ill, according to defense counsel, hounded by his political enemies who had learned that he had bought the Harris ranch and saw a chance to embarrass him by probing into his private affairs and asking where he got the necessary funds.

$100,000 Loan Returned to McLean. Mr. McLean then testified that Fall had not kept the $100,000 which he had loaned him to buy the ranch, but had returned it after ascertaining that he could get it from another source. And it also developed from Mr. McLean's testimony that Fall asked him to say that he, McLean, had made the loan, but when this matter became a subject of special inquiry by the Senate committee, Fall told him to tell the facts.

There were several indications of an approaching battle between opposing counsel regarding the admissibility as evidence of the testimony given voluntarily by Mr. Doherty before the Senate investigating committee. Mr. Hogan announced that he would strenuously object and Mr. Roberts made it clear that it would be offered, while Justice Hoehling indicated that he would rule on the question when the court convenes on tomorrow morning.

The testimony of two government witnesses, Senator Lenroot and Mr. McLean, proved the most interesting features of the trial thus far. It was hinted early in the day that the government counsel were now prepared to play their trump cards, but the defense appeared unshaken and satisfied when court adjourned over until tomorrow. And both Fall and Doherty appeared unruffled by the developments.

It was shown, for example, that Fall made no secret of the fact that he had urgently needed $100,000 to buy the ranch adjacent to his own, that he wrote to Mr. McLean relative to a partnership which would give him the required money, that he actually did borrow the money from McLean and gave the latter his note and that there was no concealment or secrecy connected with the purchase of the ranch by Fall.

Call Loan Not Mere Invention. Thus, the defense claims that their contention that the loan had nothing whatever to do with oil leases or contracts is more than ever substantiated and Fall's widely-published statement that he got the loan from McLean was not a mere invention, as charged. And, furthermore, testimony distinctly favorable to Fall was brought out by the government's own witnesses, according to the defense. Fall's credit was good for any amount running into the thousands at the time he got the loan, according to J. E. Benton, of the El Paso First National Bank. And Fall was urging that the Senate investigating committee employ activity and speed in its probe of the oil leases, according to Senator Lenroot.

Other testimony was subordinated by the star witnesses of the day, but there were, nevertheless, some interesting other incidents and the jurors smiled broadly for the first time since the trial began.

The testimony of both Josephus Daniels, former Secretary of the Navy, and Senator Walsh, of Montana, was of amazing brevity. As some remarked, they made the shortest speeches of their entire careers. Daniels said three words and was excused, Senator Walsh, who took the stand at Officials of the Wild bank said a man representing himself as a supply salesman also visited their institution last Friday. Detectives are seeking to establish if the two robberies were committed by the same man.

schools?" asked Judge Knox, presiding at the equity action brought by Barnett's guardian to halt the gift. "Yes, when I die," the Indian replied. "Do you want to give them anything while you are alive?"

"No, I want to keep my money and eat off it."

Once Lived in Poverty.

Barnett, who lived in poverty on his Oklahoma grant land until gushing oil made him a millionaire, showed by his answers that he had no more idea of the value of money than a child. He said that until he became rich he had done odd jobs for which he never received more than 75 cents a day.

Asked: "Do you know the difference between a thousand dollars and a hundred dollars?" he replied, "A hundred dollars is not quite as much as a thousand."

To only one question about money and its value did he reply with assured knowledge: "He was sure his cigars cost 5 cents apiece."

He told Judge Knox that he bought about two suits a year and he much preferred getting a new suit to having them prepared and brought to him by servants.

Does Not Like New York.

When the judge spoke of Barnett's homes in Oklahoma and California the 70-year-old Indian's eyes lighted with pleasure. He confessed that he did not like New York and was anxious to get back to the West.

"How did you spend your time in California?" he was asked.

"Riding in my automobiles and fishing."

"What did you fish for?"

"To catch fish."

"Did you catch anything?"

"No."

"You are like most of the rest of us, at least in that," the judge smiled.

Changed Mind on Hospital.

Asked about testimony of Cato Sells, former commissioner of Indian affairs, that Barnett once expressed the desire to give $1,000,000 for an Indian hospital, the witness remarked that he had changed his mind because he decided "there wasn't so much sickness among the Indians."

After the questioning had gone on for some time it was found that the Indian had no realization that the place in which he has been doing for a week while lawyers argue about his mentality was a courtroom. Nor did he know that the man who had called him to the stand and questioned him was a judge.

While the questioning was going on, Mrs. Barnett, by request of counsel, was excluded from the courtroom. During the trial it was testified that she, many years the Indian's junior, had married him after twice kidnapping him with matrimonial intent.

After Barnett had left the stand and lawyers had argued points of law, Judge Knox allowed counsel until January 1, 1927, to file briefs, after which he said he would announce the court's findings.

QUEEN MARIE SAILS WITH OLD FRIENDS AT ODDS IN TRAIL

"Every Moment in America Happy," She Says, in Spite of Rows.

COL. CARROLL AND HILL

Ayers, Once Put Off Train, in Attendance at Last as Liner Departs.

New York, Nov. 24 (By A. P.).—In spite of Queen Marie's departing statement that "every moment in America was a happy one," she left behind her a trail of bitterness among those who through personal loyalty squabbled over how best to serve her. Disagreements at the outset of her transatlantic journey remained unhealed, despite the queen's repeated employment of the diplomatic acumen for which she is famous abroad. In public utterances as well as in personal contact, the queen defended friendships which she said, might seem strange to others.

The first disturbance came in New York soon after Marie's arrival, when it became known that half of the proceeds of a Metropolitan opera performance by the Lolo Fuller dances, which the queen attended, were to go to Miss Fuller, a friend of the queen's.

The queen boarded the ship last night. Princess Ileana went aboard about 1 o'clock this morning and Prince Nicolas a few hours later. Both had been to see George White's "Scandals," but the princess had left with her chaperon, during the first intermission, her chaperon explaining to Mr. White that she preferred to see another performance. The prince stayed to the end and went later to a dance at a "private house" not further identified.

The royal family were all up early this morning, and for nearly two hours before the ship sailed at 10 o'clock, were busy receiving friends on farewell visits. Among these were J. Butler Wright, Assistant Secretary of State, and Mrs. Wright; William Nelson Cromwell, president of the Friends of Roumania; Ira Nelson Morris, and members of diplomatic corps. Col. Carroll and Samuel Hill were not present, having left the queen good-bye before today.

In attendance until the last moment was J. A. Ayers.

Suit Against Carol Is Practically Thrown Out

Paris, Nov. 24 (By A. P.).—Zizi Lambrino's case against former Crown Prince Carol of Roumania, seeking to legalize the name of Hohenzollern for her son by their morganatic marriage, was virtually thrown out of the court today.

The state's attorney gave the opinion that the French courts were without jurisdiction in the case, and it is taken for granted that the court before which the case was argued last week will adopt this attitude in its judgment next Wednesday.

Carol and Zizi are both Roumanians, and the case should be tried in the Roumanian courts.

Mme. Lambrino, styled by her lawyer "former Princess von Hohenzollern," brought suit in the first chamber of the Seine department tribunal seeking to have Carol regularize the status of their child and pay for his education at the Lycee Michelet. At the same time she asked 10,000,000 francs as damages for the prejudices caused her through the implication that the child was illegitimate. Zizi's lawyer claimed, and Carol's counsel denied, that the child was born before the annulment of the marriage became effective.

LINER, DELAYED IN GALE, RUNS SHORT OF WATER

Divorced Wife of Kaiser's
Fourth Son Among Best
Sailors on Westphalia.

PRINCESS FRIES EGGS
STRICKEN AREA ISOLATED

Boston, Nov. 24 (By A. P.).—Because of a prolonged voyage due to stormy weather the supply of water ran low on the steamer Westphalia, of the Hamburg-American line, which put in here today, two days late, to disembark passengers. The vessel later continued to New York.

When notices were posted about the ship requesting passengers to cut down on their consumption of water in order to conserve the supply, some of the more timorous filled water bottles and prepared for a famine. Their fears were groundless, however, and the tanks still held a small quantity when the Westphalia docked here.

High seas kicked up by a series of westerly gales tested the seagoing qualities of most of the 250 passengers. Officers of the liner said one of the best sailors on board was Mrs. Alexander Rumm, divorced wife of Prince August Wilhelm, fourth son of the former Kaiser of Germany, who is on her way to her husband to visit friends in New York.

The princess, always an early riser, became hungry one morning after about 1 o'clock this morning and decided that the breakfast hour was too far off. She entered the kitchen and, with permission of the chef, fried some eggs for her own morning meal. Mrs. Rumm formerly was the Princess Alexandra Victoria, daughter of the Duke of Gloucester. Her husband, whom she married five years ago, is a retired naval commander and was staff captain during the war.

Wilhelm Out of Bed Again.
Doorn, Holland, Nov. 24 (By A. P.). The former Kaiser continues to recover from the effects of the attack, described variously as rheumatism or lumbago, which confined him to his bed over the week-end, although the pains have not entirely disappeared. He was allowed to leave his bed for a few hours again today.

Roumanian courts, the state's attorney held. He suggested that if Zizi's son, Mircea, were shown to be without dynastic pretension he would be accorded favorable hearing and redress in the Roumanian courts.

Mme. Lambrino, styled by her lawyer "former Princess von Hohenzollern," brought suit in the first chamber of the Seine department tribunal seeking to have Carol regularize the status of their child and pay for his education at the Lycee Michelet. FRENCH VILLAGES BURIED BY LANDSLIDES; 40 DEAD

Earth and Rocks, Loosened by Heavy Rains, Descend in Wave Half Mile Wide.

PRINCESS FRIES EGGS
STRICKEN AREA ISOLATED

Nice, France, Nov. 24 (By A. P.).—Landslides, caused by recent torrential rains, have wrecked the mountain villages of Roquevillers and Belvidere, in the Alps maritimes department. At least 40 persons perished.

The principal destruction was at Roquevillers, where a vast avalanche of earth, rocks and mud, extending over a half a mile, swept down on the village with its 1,500 inhabitants. The entire village has been evacuated, and 30 are known to be dead at this place. Some houses, undermined by a torrent from the Vesuble river, fell shortly before the others were crushed by the slide.

The prefect of the department, accompanied by soldiers and firemen, has left Nice to give aid to the stricken mountain regions which are partly cut off from communication.

In various other sections there have been serious earthshakes, which have buried houses and blocked the roads, greatly increasing the damage done by the storms. Although many Americans live in the district, no casualties among them have been reported thus far.

Madrid, Nov. 24 (By A. P.).—Violent rain and snowstorms today were sweeping the Spanish peninsula, damaging shipping and threatening floods in various sections of the country. Snow and ice covered Caen, Galicia and North Leon, and wolves were reported to be making raids on the cattle.

Most of the storm damage has been confined to ships, the crews of which were rescued, and to the coastal districts. Vigo reported the foundering of the Greek steamer Andrius. The crew was saved by fishermen.

The port of Cadiz was crowded with ships awaiting better weather or seeking refuge before the tempest at sea. Alicante reported the loss of the steamer Cape Pola, whose crew also was saved.

Rivers in Aranjuez and Seville were rising to a menacing height, Lerida and Badajoz reporting similar conditions. The Carolina mines at Jaen suspended work because flood waters entered the pits.

MR. FESS' PROPHECY.

Senator Fess, of Ohio, has a wide reputation as a political prophet. He has made another horoscope, and the public is reading and commenting industriously. The Ohio senator says that President Coolidge will be renominated for President by the Republicans and that Gov. Smith of New York will be nominated by the Democrats; and that the "paramount issue"—to employ the familiar language of the late William J. Bryan—will be the liquor question and the amendment of the Volstead law.

This announcement from the Ohio senator indicates that the Republicans consider President Coolidge their logical candidate, and that the third term cry will cut little or no figure. Furthermore, it suggests that Senator Fess will be the President's oracle on the floor of the Senate, now that Senator Butler is out.

Senator Fess asserts that President Coolidge has lost nothing of his popularity in the country, and that the West is strong for him despite his attitude on the so-called farm relief proposition.

Political horoscopes have an element of hazard similar to a horse race or a game of poker. But if any man has the power or luck to deal happily in futures it is the senator from Ohio, who has made many guesses and holds a fairly good batting average.

It is not unlikely that Senator Fess may be asked by President Coolidge to be the next chairman of the Republican national committee, despite the fact that he is a senator. It will be recalled that a former distinguished Ohioan, Mark Hanna, was both chairman of the Republican national committee and United States senator. Also William M. Butler was chairman and senator for a few months. There is nothing to prevent a senator from being national chairman. The only requisite is political acumen and ability. The Ohio senator comes from the middle West, has had abundant experience, and is possessed of marked ability.

It may be that this is a pretty good prophecy from one who will lead the Republican hosts of 1928. Who knows?

LYON VILLAGE'S GREAT REFORM.

The Lyon Village Citizens association has a battle on its hands. Its executive committee has instructed the delegates to the Arlington County Civic Federation to propose a rule limiting debate on all questions to five minutes. Apparently sessions of the county organization are being greatly extended by filibustering and unnecessary oratory, and the Lyon Village body proposes to put a stop to the practice.

More power to the association! It will need every bit of strength to accomplish this great reform. The average individual likes to talk, whether he has anything to say or not. There is something extremely pleasant and unusually satisfying in the sound of one's own voice rippling out phrases and pleasant noises. The opportunity to indulge in the exercise of the voice before a crowd does not often present itself, and many will resent the attempt to place a curb on oratory.

Lyon Village proposes one of the greatest reforms that has ever been conceived by the human race. If it can be made effective in Arlington county, its benefits may spread to neighboring towns, counties, States and countries, with incalculable profit to all humanity for ages to come. Like all momentous evolutions, it begins in a small way, like a mustard seed. But there is no reason why Lyon Village should not strive to win eternal fame for being the birthplace of brevity. The fact that Lyon Village lies under the shadow of the dome of the Capitol emphasizes the heroic character of its campaign to limit human utterance.

SILK STOCKINGS.

A New York organization seeking to aid working girls and promote proper housing has taken on a man's sized job in announcing that it proposes to ascertain whether the young woman working at $15 a week is wearing silk stockings at the expense of a neglected stomach. The estimable ladies who are conducting this clinic on the working girl are hopeful of finding out what she eats and wears, and how she works and plays. If they work out that problem satisfactorily they will have achieved something worth while.

No matter how she may be required to stint and sacrifice with respect to other things, the modern girl, whatever her circumstances, will have none other than silk as the dressing for her limbs. This was emphasized recently when the entire roll of "freshmen" in a co-ed Western college went on strike because the dean attempted to enforce an edict that the pupils in that class must wear cotton stockings. What, then, might be expected from attempted interference with the inalienable rights of the independent working girl, even though her independence is based upon only $15 per.

If silk stockings are bought at the expense of plain old-fashioned beef and fresh vegetables, the ladies of the clinic want to know it. Is the slim, straight silhouette of which the working girl of today is so proud, and which marks her as something entirely different from her species elsewhere on earth, the result of underfeeding, enforced because of money spent on silk stockings, or is it brought about through proper exercise and familiarity with the daily dozen? This is another question on the agenda that is to be inquired into and discussed.

Young women who manage to look happy on $15 a week, appearing at their daily tasks neatly groomed, and who thus far have escaped the appearance of suffering from malnutrition, are to be bombarded with questionnaires prepared by experts on economics, nutrition, dietetics, menu planning, budgetary reform, etc., in an effort to learn how they put the double cross on the high cost of living. But the silk stockings—will the inquisitors ever learn that secret? Here, probably, is one instance where the girls will prove conclusively the fallacy of the old saying that woman can't keep a secret.

IN WASHINGTON'S MARKET.

At this season the thoughts of man drift naturally to things to eat, and Washington is a pretty good place in which to find the "best that the market affords." That best is certainly worth while right now for the market affords variety enough to tempt the most jaded appetite. Besides the viands openly displayed there are others in the storage houses of some of the food merchants who cater to the very "cream of society" and which are not available to the uninitiated.

Pheasants, partridges, grouse and quail are to be had here by one who knows where to look for them, and besides venison and reindeer meat there has just been received from Utah a consignment of buffalo carcasses, shot in the last great buffalo hunt by some of Senator Smoot's constituents; to say nothing of bear steaks and a few choice cuts from some of those Alaska whales which have been harpooned in greater numbers this fall than during any period since the disappearance of the New Bedford whalers from the north Atlantic.

Fish, flesh and fowl in wide variety are reported from the markets, nor is there anything lacking in the way of fruits and vegetables. The citrus orchards of the West Indies, Florida, the Gulf States and California; grapefruit, as large as the head of a giant, tower over the baskets of tiny kumquats, and nesting on the side are oranges, tangerines and lemons, with skins as delicate as lady's kid glove. There, too, are pomegranates, medlars and great luscious pears; three-pound bunches of hothouse grapes from Belgium; malagas from Argentina, to say nothing of the products of the vineyards of California and the orchards of Maryland, Virginia, New York, Michigan, Oregon, Washington and Idaho. Yes, we also have bananas, yellow and red.

Artichokes, cauliflower, "icebergs" and the coolest kind of cucumbers, potatoes from Bermuda, carrots from Texas and green corn from south of the equator can be found in Washington. In fact, with the possible exception of breadfruit from Tahiti and cherries from Tasmania, there is absolutely nothing lacking in the way of fruits, nuts and vegetables in the Washington market at this holiday season.

THE JOSEPHINE FORD.

The giant Pokker monoplane, Josephine Ford, first airplane to be navigated over the north pole, completed its transcontinental exhibition tour on Tuesday last. More than 8,600 miles were covered in 104 flying hours, and stops were made in 45 cities. So faithfully did the ship function that the schedule was followed as accurately as a passenger train follows its time table. Only one city was reached behind schedule, and that may be attributed to extremely bumpy air conditions and a 45-mile an hour gale. Not once during the trip did even one of the three motors miss a revolution.

Although no novel feature was accomplished by the trip, for transcontinental flights of a similar sort have become almost commonplace, the Josephine Ford has rendered a signal service to aviation. In the 45 cities visited, thousands of persons inspected this famous plane. Thousands of words were written for and published by the newspapers regarding the itinerary. At every stop a lecturer was at hand to explain the intricacies and possibilities of flying. And throughout, like a true thoroughbred, the plane met all requirements, with speed to spare.

Aircraft are so common in the East that they have ceased to be of interest to the public. Farther West, however, especially off the air lanes used by mail planes and service fliers, aircraft still are unusual. Millions of persons have seen no airplanes. Thousands more have seen only the old-fashioned cloth and piano wire contrivance which was the wonder of ten, twenty, or thirty years ago. To these the Josephine Ford, solid, commodious, trustworthy and stable, was a revelation. The country has gained a better idea as to the meaning of commercial aviation as a result of this trip.

FOREIGN LANGUAGE PRESS.

The number of aliens in New York city who read the foreign language press and depend upon it for knowledge of things American suggests that there still is much to be desired in the way of Americanization of immigrants. Some one with a genius for figures and research has shown that 40 foreign language dailies and a total of 193 foreign publications come from the presses of the city every month. Within sight of Ellis island there are published daily newspapers in 23 different tongues, read by more than 1,000,000 people. Their combined circulation indicates that one out of every six persons in New York reads a paper printed in a foreign language.

Italians have the largest number of publications, reaching a total of 34. All these print what they believe their public want and what they need, a public largely composed of first generation immigrants. It is interesting to know that all these people are vitally concerned about the new country in which their lives and destinies are centered and, perhaps, it is natural to expect that only through the agency of their native tongue can they learn how to adapt themselves to their new environment. It is encouraging, also, to learn that the great majority of these foreign language papers, many of them issued in tabloid form, are conservative; the "fire-brand" is the exception.

Since immigration has been restricted these publications are beginning to print certain sections in English. This is a good sign, and, happily, may be the forerunner of the advent of that day when English will be the spoken and written language of the United States. Since 1917 the number of foreign language papers has diminished considerably. The new generation is being educated in the public schools and is being weaned away from ancestral languages and customs.

It is with the first generation that the proponents of Americanization must concern themselves, and so long as immigration is permitted these newcomers must continue to be the subject of their care.

SUGAR AND COTTON.

Proposed arbitrary reduction of the crop of sugar and of cotton, for the benefit of producers, offers an interesting study in economics. It is suggested that the Cuban sugar crop be reduced some 500,000 tons; in fact, the Cuban authorities have so decreed. It is proposed to reduce the cotton crop or keep off the market some 4,000,000 bales.

The justification for such restriction in the production of two important commodities is that production is excessive, and that prices will tend still lower. Already the price of cotton has declined to a low level; while the price of sugar is rising as the result of the restriction and the reduction in supply.

Obviously the purpose of this movement is to increase prices to the consumers. It is the application of supply and demand. That law is wholly responsible for the drop in cotton and the rise in sugar.

The important query is this: How far can the production of essential food or other farm crops be curtailed without injuring the whole population? Is production of food and of cotton too great? Is it economically sound to diminish the supply of commodities for the sole purpose of increasing the price to consumers for the benefit of producers?

Such a procedure is essentially a waste of world wealth, just as much as it would be wasteful to burn crops in order to raise prices. If transportation facilities were adequate, sufficient markets could be found for all farm crops, including sugar and cotton, as well as corn.

Instead of a scarcity of food and other commodities to supply the population of the world, there appears to be too much. Certainly this anomaly appears from the studied program to reduce the amount of sugar and cotton produced.

Probably the solution of the problem lies in increasing the consuming power of the world's population, and in improving the marketing facilities everywhere. Nature is bountiful if given an opportunity. Instead of checking this bounty, why not raise the living conditions of many parts of the world and increase the consuming power of the people thereof?

FINGERPRINTS.

Those who have had the time and the courage to wade through the voluminous testimony of the Hall-Mills trial are torn between two doubts as to the most important piece of evidence presented thus far. Two exhibits are in running for the first prize—the bluefish which one of the defendants claims to have weighed on the night of the crime at a point 60 miles distant from the scene, and the calling card bearing certain fingerprints found beneath the crabapple tree. The bluefish is important because the weighing was accompanied by a gesture of five or six persons standing about watching the process with great interest reaching into as many pockets, withdrawing watches, and making careful note of the time. The card is important because the fingerprint implanted thereon either is or is not that of one of the defendants.

There has been some doubt that a card containing anything as elusive as a fingerprint, examined by no one knows how many interested persons, passed about or kept in hiding for a period of four years, could be of much value in evidence. The court itself, however, apparently accepts the card at its face value, for the imprint has been preserved sufficiently clearly to make possible an enlargement 180 times normal size. Experts have testified that the print unquestionably is that of one of the defendants. Other gentlemen, equally expert, have testified that beyond the slightest doubt it could not have been made by Willie Stevens.

The public has been taught that no two fingerprints were similar; that they offer the one only real and infallible means of identification. Either they have or they have not been made by the fingers of the certain individual under examination. Can it be that the fingerprint method of identification is fallible, or a fake?

TOO COLD FOR AN ALASKAN.

The California press agent is at it again. Just when Florida, having recovered from the disastrous effects of the hurricane, is getting ready for the influx of tourists, the Pacific coast propagandist comes out with a nice little yarn in which he subtly refers to that California climate, the glories of which have furnished themes for the thespians for so many years.

According to the very latest production of this energetic publicity spreader William Karg, scion of a wealthy family of one of the ultra fashionable suburbs of Gotham, has just been discovered as an inmate of an eleemosynary institution in San Francisco. William is now more than 70 years of age. He ran away from home and school when a young man. He enlisted in the army and subsequently went to Alaska, where he was supposed to have perished in an avalanche of snow some 36 years ago. But he evidently crawled out of the snow slide, and only recently his existence and whereabouts were discovered by his sister, "a wealthy society matron" of Yonkers.

The lady pleaded with her brother to return with her and spend his remaining days amidst the luxury which she offered. But all in vain. He would accept only enough from his relative to enable him to return to the "cheap lodging house" which he patronized in his more prosperous days.

That's all the story, except the reason given by the wanderer for his refusal to go East. In explaining that reason the press agent found his opportunity—"Karg refuses to leave California because of his fear of the cold weather of New York State."

And this from a man supposed to have been buried under a mountain of snow in the wilds of Alaska for 36 years! He will stick in that "glorious climate of California" until next April, in any event.

Florida's next next!

PRESS COMMENT.

A Proper Question.

Chicago Daily News: Bishop Manning says the end of the jazz age is in sight. The only question is: What end?

True Words.

Winston-Salem Sentinel: The one thing that keeps the average individual from being a tyrant is lack of authority.

But It Takes Two People.

Colorado Springs Gazette: You can hold a private conversation in public if you speak some foreign tongue or perfect English.

Safety First.

Nashville Banner: Practice safety first and disguise yourself as a deer if you are going into the woods during the hunting season.

This Twentieth Century.

Charleston Mail: The distinguishing trait of the twentieth century seems to be its ability to live beyond its means.

A Poser.

St. Louis Post-Dispatch: Senator Brookhart says of the farm fight: "Anybody who thinks this battle can be won by whistling 'Yankee Doodle' needs the attention of a 'psychopathic specialist.' " from which we may gain some notion why the senator is so hard to beat in a campaign.

This Fellow Brookhart.

St. Louis Post-Dispatch: Senator Brookhart says of the farm fight: "Anybody who thinks this battle can be won by whistling 'Yankee Doodle' needs the attention of a 'psychopathic specialist.' " from which we may gain some notion why the senator is so hard to beat in a campaign.

The World Progresses.

Cincinnati Enquirer: The world is growing better. You do not see any more of those old-fashioned pictures in which the bride is standing up and the bridegroom sitting and the bride has her hand on the bridegroom's shoulder and both look as miserable as if they had just swallowed a peck of bichloride tablets.

The Substantial Necessity.

Philadelphia Inquirer: They are again holding a clinic on the working girl, one of the particular objects of this investigation being to determine whether she is buying silk stockings at the sacrifice of more substantial necessities. We think they will find she is not. There is nothing more essential to any girl's physical well-being and her peace of mind than silk stockings, no matter what they cost.

The Nastiest Cut.

Baltimore Sun: Many nasty things have been said about Pennsylvania, ranging from the disreputable condition of its politics to its alleged inertia in matters intellectual. But perhaps the most cutting commentary ever made on the Keystone State is provided by the gentleman from Erie who has suffered a mental breakdown from his efforts to solve crossword puzzles. The story reveals the unpleasant fact that what was recreation for most Americans is an intolerable mental strain for Pennsylvanians.

Real Estate Immigration.

Louisville Courier Journal: One of the immigration questions which bother the United States and Mexico is the immigration of real estate along the Rio Grande. The land itself is not migratory but the boundary stream is restless. It changes its channel fre-

The Way to Happiness

By ROBERT QUILEN

A COUNTRYMAN visiting in the city is kept awake by noises that lull the metropolitan to sleep. The accustomed escapes notice.

In similar fashion man's mind is lulled to truths heard too often. Millions miss the simple way to happiness because the story has been told so many times that it no longer makes an impression on their minds.

Twenty-four hundred years ago, two great teachers, one in China and one in India, revealed to men the pathway to abundant life. Five hundred years later another appeared in Galilee and taught the same lesson.

It is a simple lesson, and its very simplicity causes men who are unwise to doubt. And yet it points the way to happiness, and in all of human history man has discovered no other way.

The way for a man to save his life is to lose it. That is the whole story. There is no happiness for man except as he loses himself in something bigger than himself.

Unselfishness is the key that unlocks the gateway to Paradise. When man forgets petty ambition and the hope of reward and loses himself in his work, two things happen: He does excellent work, and rewards are piled at his feet.

The truth is that happy people seldom are aware of being happy. They are too busy.

All people who consciously seek happiness because they now are miserable seek it selfishly. Their one desire is gain for themselves, and thus they defeat their own ends. The harder they try, the worse they fail. It is a law.

The pilgrim in quest of happiness falls discouraged by the roadside. On the morrow he begins to dig a well in order that thirsty men who travel that way may drink; and lo! happiness floods his soul as he labors.

quently and an international commission is kept busy relocating the line. By agreement, a "banco," as it is called, containing 617.75 acres, measured in hectares, does not change sovereignty by being switched from one side of the river to another. Thirty-eight "banco" have been formed since 1912 and their owners and residents are anxious to know in which country they are living and where they have to pay taxes and vote.

NO MORE BUREAUS.

New Uim Journal: That our government is rapidly becoming more and more bureaucratic is the fear of many of our people who have watched the trend of national affairs. The multiplicity of bureaus in our national life is becoming an evil just as the overlapping boards and commissions in our State government. When the Minnesota Educational association met in St. Paul last week the delegates adopted a resolution favoring the Reed-Curtis bill, which would establish a Secretary of Education in the President's cabinet, which would mean an army of clerks in a bureau supervising national education. It is questionable whether there is any public demand for such a bureau and we fear the pedagogues were deceived by overzealous propagandists who are promoting soft berths for an army of officeholders at Washington. It is time to call a halt on these regular raids on the national treasury.

THE OTHER SIDE.

Worthington Times: Apparently six out of the eight States conducting referendums on prohibition came out wet, and the wets think they have cause for jubilation, claiming that the country is wet in a ratio of 6 to 4. It is an easy matter to shoot such a claim full of holes. In the first place, except in States that were normally wet, and four out of eight of these went dry. Then again, the effort was considered such a farce that a great many dry voters did not pay enough attention to it to register their choice. Whether this was a part of wisdom may be questioned, because it gives the wets something to crow over. There can be no question but that if the remaining 40 States had voted on the question it would have been overwhelmingly defeated.

PARENT OF LANGUAGES.

Sanskrit is the ancient classical tongue of the Hindus, and the oldest preserved form of Aryan or Indo-European language in existence, says the Kansas City Star. It ceased to be spoken about the fourth century B. C. and is preserved only in the Hindu sacred writings. Sanskrit is the parent of all the modern Aryan languages: O. India, and the language most closely related to the original tongue of the ancient Aryans, from which have descended the Celtic, Graco-Latin, Teutonic, Slavonic and Persian languages. Sanskrit literature, which begins with the Vedas, extends back as far as 2,000 or 1,500 B. C. Sanskrit is still cultivated as a classical language by the Hindus, and remains the sacred language of the Brahmins.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

He Takes a Drink.
To the Editor of The Post—Sir: One day "Doc" Wheeler comes out with a raft of figures in the press, claiming prohibition to be a great success. Next day "Cap" Stayton comes along with statistics, proving it to be a rank failure. In the meantime the average citizen takes a drink whenever he wants it.
A. C. BAXTER.

Sunday Blue Laws.
To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The blue law advocates will "go the limit" to secure Sunday legislation, according to recent reports.

I believe that Charles H. Spurgeon hit the nail squarely on the head when he said: "I am ashamed of some Christians because they have so much dependence on parliament and the law of the land. Much good may be done by parliament, but true religion except by mistake! As to getting the law of the land to touch our religion, we earnestly cry, 'Hands off! Leave us alone!' Your Sunday bills and all other forms of act-of-parliament religion seem to me to be all wrong. Give us a fair field and no favor and our faith has no cause to fear. Christ wants no help from Caesar. I should be afraid to borrow help from the government; it would look to me as if I rested on an arm of flesh instead of depending on the living God. Let the Lord's day be respected by all means, and may the day soon come when every shop will be closed on the Sabbath, but let it be by the force of conviction, and not by the force of the policeman; let true religion triumph by the power of God in men's hearts, and not by the power of fines and imprisonments." C. B. HAMM.

Why Shut Out Communism?
To the Editor of The Post—Sir: It is got time, in view of what Congress is doing at every session, and in view of how the country is drifting, for every thoughtful American to ask the question which heads this article? For more than a third of a century the country has been drifting toward communism, and the current of the drift has become very strong during the last five years.

Fully one-third of the bills introduced in Congress are strongly tainted with communistic ideas. What is communism? The basic idea is the abolition of private ownership of property transferring everything to the government either to own or control and direct. We have not yet reached the point of absolute ownership by the government, but are drifting that way, for we are endeavoring to control and direct many of the industrial units.

For the last five years the country has been racked by the cry, "Help the farmer." Men have been elected to high official positions on that issue. It is pure, unadulterated communism. From directing and controlling it is but a short step to ownership.

Congress and State legislatures have enacted laws fixing the hours of a day's labor, and in some States an effort has been made to fix by statute the wage to be paid. Communism again. Farm loans—communism. Why not shoemakers' loans? Are shoemakers unworthy? Do they not labor? Do they not produce? Lastly, do they not vote?

If Congress is built on communistic lines, why shut out the advocates of that idea of government? If Congress desires to be the real, genuine guardian of the people let it take off the shackles it has placed on business and give individual enterprise an open door.

MISS LIPSCOMB PRESENTED.
Miss Rebecca Lipscomb, daughter of Mrs. Blaine Lipscomb, was presented to society yesterday afternoon at a tea dance given by her mother at the Wardman Park hotel. Mrs. Lipscomb was gowning in apricot-colored chiffon velvet with a deep border of gold lace at the hem, the same lace forming the yoke and the transparent long sleeves with tight cuffs. Her corsage was of orchids and tiny apricot-colored rosebuds.

Assisting Mrs. Lipscomb were her sisters: Mrs. H. J. Crosson, Mrs. Charles F. Byrne and Mrs. Aubrey L. Clarke, also Mrs. Alexander Bentley, Mrs. C. Perry Miller, Mrs. John R. Leighty, Mrs. J. W. Price, Mrs. J. T. Newcomb.

LEONID KRASSIN DEAD; WAS ENVOY OF SOVIET

Soon Would Have Brought About Better Relations With Britain, Is View.

ANEMIA CAUSES DEATH

London, Nov. 24 (By A. P.).—Leonid Krassin, Russian soviet charge d'affaires in London, died at 4 o'clock this morning from pernicious anemia.

Blood transfusions, made over a period of several months, failed to save him, but of late he had appeared in good spirits, and his death came as a shock to his friends.

The death of Mr. Krassin will not interrupt any important negotiations with Great Britain. Only last week the charge visited the foreign office, continuing his efforts to solve the problem of bolshevik propaganda which Foreign Secretary Chamberlain told the house of commons was keeping Great Britain and soviet Russia apart.

Mr. Chamberlain added that he had been informed by the charge that the soviet government would welcome better relations with Great Britain and that he had replied that Moscow first must cease communist propaganda against the British empire.

At the foreign office in Downing street today tribute was paid to Mr. Krassin as a sensible and responsible diplomat, who if he had not passed away, undoubtedly would have brought about improved relations between Russia and Great Britain.

It was said that Krassin's greatest value to Moscow was that he commanded the respect and confidence of the British financial world.

Krassin's exact status in England was never clearly defined. Moscow called him an ambassador and he occupied the old czarist embassy with a large staff and entertained on a scale comparable with the other diplomats, but Great Britain never recognized his full ambassadorial status.

However, the usual governmental courtesies observed upon the death of an ambassador will be accorded him.

Missing Boys Found Asleep in Own Shack

While more than a score of neighbors and policemen searched for them in the woods near their homes last night, Billy McKnight, 7 years old, 6707 Sixth street northwest, and Earl Eaden, 7 years old, 615 Aspen street northwest, were having a sound sleep in their little hand-made shack in a field a short distance from their homes.

When the boys failed to come home for supper their parents notified the police. The descriptions of the lads were broadcast from station WRC and sent to the police precincts. Neighbors and policemen after three hours of searching found the boys in the shack asleep.

Mother-in-Law Fires To Scare; Shot Kills

Charleston, W. Va., Nov. 24 (By A. P.).—A bullet which Mrs. Anna Branham, 63, of Daves, said she fired through her door frightened her son-in-law, Leonard Falen, caused his death early today. The mother-in-law was arrested.

Police said their investigation showed Falen's wife went to her mother's home after a disagreement with her husband and Falen followed her there.

5 TAKEN OUT ALIVE AFTER 9 DAYS IN MINE

All of the men were in good physical condition notwithstanding that they had been without food since a week ago last Tuesday afternoon and were able to go to their homes, where there were happy reunions.

Gondara had with him a box of carbide partly filled. He lighted this when the rescuers approached, and the light attracted their attention.

Officials of the Lehigh Valley Co. announced that when it was believed that Charles Smith was dead in the flood, they would not lessen their efforts to find him, dead or alive.

The imprisoned miners managed to keep their lights burning until November 18, when they went out. All of them had carbide lights. They kept their watches going, but had difficulty in keeping track of the time. When they were brought to the surface some had arguments as to what day it was, some saying it was Thanksgiving day, but others insisted that it was last Monday.

The entombed men drank sulphur water out of their hats, they said.

Marcus Loew, Ill, Improves.

Los Angeles, Nov. 24 (By A. P.).—The condition of Marcus Loew, theater owner and motion picture producer, who suffered a partial relapse last week from a recent attack of pneumonia, was reported today as improved.

The physician at a hotel where Loew has been confined to his bed, said there was nothing alarming about the illness.

CARPENDER'S STORY OPPOSED BY STATE IN HALL-MILLS CASE

fingerprint experts until Friday morning, when Simpson said they will be cross-examined, "or not at all."

The defense sent 22 witnesses to the stand during the day, exclusive of Willie Stevens, who began testifying yesterday and completed his testimony in seven minutes today.

All of the defense witnesses today were used to attack testimony of the State.

Mrs. Hall, the minister's widow, is expected to testify Friday or Saturday. Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Carpendar, cousins of the defendants and neighbors as well as of Mrs. Hall and Willie Stevens, had told of receiving news of Mr. Hall's death, of breaking the news to the widow and making arrangements for the funeral, when the name of Henry Carpendar was called.

Looking like the wall street broker he is, he went to the stand to find objections to his testimony. He was permitted by the court, over objection by the State, to say that he is under indictment as are the defendants on trial, and stated his relationship, cousin, to them.

"Where have you been spending the last few months?" was another question asked to stand after objection.

"In jail," he replied with a hint of a quizzical smile.

Objection Halts Questions.

He said, in reply to a question as to when he had been in the home of Mrs. Hall, prior to September 14, 1922, that his last visit was in the spring of that year, but added that he had been away a portion of the time and has not returned to New Brunswick until Labor day.

The next question was the last. "Were you on Phillips farm or in De Russes' lane on the night of September 14, 1922, when Mrs. Gibson has testified she saw you there?" asked Clarence E. Case, of defense counsel.

"I was not," the witness replied before the argument got under way. The jury was then excused and the rest of the session was taken up with debate as to the admissibility of the testimony.

Before the jury retired, however, Case said that if permitted to do so, he expected to show by Carpendar's testimony that Mrs. Hall was "one of the men," she did not look at him. During the cross-examination of Jane Gibson, Henry Carpendar went to her bedside in court to be identified.

The witnesses used today to attack the prosecution's case included several clergymen who said that Mrs. Hall had no scratch on her face at the time of her husband's funeral as testified by a nurse driver and newspaper photographer. The State has contended that a struggle preceded the slaying.

Among the witnesses used in an effort to disprove Jane Gibson's story were Detective Fred David and former Sheriff Bogart T. Conklin. Both had appeared as State witnesses. They told of stories by the woman-farmer not in accord with her testimony from a hospital bed in this trial.

A daughter in disagreement with the testimony of her mother developed when Mrs. Mabel D. Clickner said she was riding in an automobile with her mother, Mrs. Mary Demarest, at a time when Mrs. Demarest had testified she saw Ralph V. M. Goraline and Mrs. Minna Clark "spying" on Mr. Hall and Mrs. Mills, but did not observe these incidents. The State contends that Mrs. Clark carried to Mrs. Hall stories of her husband's affair with Mrs. Mills and that Mrs. Hall's jealousy and hate prompted the slaying.

The phase of the moon on the night of the slaying was given attention when Prof. Raymond S. Dugan, of Princeton university, testified that it was in the last quarter. An architect, Alexander Merchant, said the rear and side doors of the Hall home open inward. A milkman testified that he closed a door obstructing his path.

made earlier by the State that he was not a full brother of the other two defendants.

The parish records showed that William Carpendar Stevens was baptized June 16, 1872, and that he was born in March of the same year, in Aiken, S. C.

Mrs. Agnes Blust told of having seen Mrs. Mills on Easton avenue, near the lane, just a few hours before the killings.

She had a brown package under her arm which the defense contends contained the letters which were found near the bodies.

Simpson on cross-examination questioned whether the brown package was not a scarf which was found on the soprano's body.

Doesn't Think It Was Scarf.

"Was it a brown scarf on the arm of Mrs. Mills?" asked the prosecutor.

"I don't think it was," answered Mrs. Blust. Later she said that it "might have been," and that she had not observed it closely.

"Was she all alone?" asked Simpson.

"Yes, alone."

"Did she speak to you?"

"No; she just smiled."

The witness said that she was walking along Easton avenue. After meeting Mrs. Mills she met the Rev. Mr. Hall, who was walking rapidly and looked at his watch and at the clock on a school building as he passed.

"Nobody was following him?" asked Simpson.

"Not that I saw," answered the witness.

Still Thinks It a Package.

On redirect examination Mr. Case met with repeated objections from Simpson when he sought to obtain an answer from the witness as to whether she wasn't sure it was a package she saw under Mrs. Mills' arm. Establishment by the defense that it was a package would aid the defendants by tending to prove that Mrs. Mills took the letters to the trying place and that Mrs. Hall did not take them there from the Hall home. The letters found at the scene of the slaying were those written by Mrs. Mills to the Rev. Mr. Hall.

Pleading "surprise" at the testimony of the witness under cross-examination, that she wasn't certain it was a package she saw under Mrs. Mills' arm, Mr. Case obtained permission to read Mrs. Blust's testimony at the preliminary hearing, at which she had testified she was certain it was "a small parcel."

After hearing the excerpts from her previous testimony, the witness said she still thought it was a package.

Fred David, one of the chief investigators of the crime soon after it was committed, was called by the defense to make further assault on the story told by Mrs. Gibson.

Remained on Mule, Is Version.

"Do you remember, during your investigation in 1922, of having a conference with Mrs. Gibson, in company with Mr. Totten (Middlesex county detective) and having Mrs. Gibson go over at night the route she said she went over the night of the murder?"

"I do."

"Regarding this night, did she tell you that while riding her mule along the lane she saw a flash and heard shots?"

"Yes, sir."

"Did she say that after hearing the shots she proceeded home without getting off her mule?"

"She did."

Mrs. Gibson testified for the State that she heard the shots after she had dismounted and tied her mule.

Failed to Identify Trio.

Then at the end of one of the hardest fought legal battles of the day, David testified that Mrs. Gibson in 1922 had said at the Middlesex prosecutor's office in New Brunswick that she could not identify Mrs. Hall and Willie and Henry Stevens and the persons she had seen at the crabapple tree.

"On or about October 17, 1922, did Mrs. Gibson tell you at the prosecutor's office in New Brunswick that she could not identify any of the three defendants here before you?" Case asked.

"She did," replied David very positively.

"Was Mrs. Hall present at that time?"

"She was. She was in one room and Henry and Willie Stevens were in another."

Bogart T. Conklin who, as sheriff of Somerset county, participated in the 1922 investigations, testified that Mrs. Gibson told him she did not believe the Stevens family "had anything to do with the killings."

Asked if he had told State police what Mrs. Gibson said, Conklin said he had not because they never asked him.

"Did you tell them all you knew about the killings?" Senator Simpson asked.

"I did not," Conklin replied.

GERMAN BARKENTINE, FREED, ESCORTED OUT

Coast Guard Vessel Takes the Carmen and Liquor Cargo to High Sea.

New York, Nov. 24 (By A. P.).—The German barkentine Carmen, object of mysterious attentions by coast guardsmen since Sunday night, turned her back on America today with no one the wiser for three days of gossip.

The Carmen, formerly the Marguerite, is a German-owned auxiliary schooner, manned by a war-time U-boat crew. Members of the coast guard boarded her at sea and when she hove to Sunday night there were rumors of a $500,000 liquor cargo in her hold.

By Tuesday the cargo was depreciated in rumored value.

After examination of her papers, which were found regular, the Carmen was escorted from quarantine by the coast guard cutter Gresham and left to her own devices 140 miles out.

Coast guard investigators reported that although the schooner had loitered off the coast for two weeks, her cargo was intact. Her clearances showed she left Bremen for Halifax September 16.

Brown, 726 Kenyon street northwest. It was stated by P. Grant Gilmore, director of negro exhibits.

The health exhibit consisted of models, illustrative panels and unusual lighting effects demonstrating health reasons of special value to negroes.

Woman Hit by Coal Truck.

Mrs. Annie K. Kilman, 30 years old, 213 Third street southwest, suffered a possible fracture of the hip yesterday when she was struck and knocked down by a coal truck of the Consumers' Coal Co. at Seventh and D streets northwest. The truck was driven by Arthur Sanders, colored, 32 years old, 615 Four-and-a-half street southwest. Mrs. Kilman was treated at Emergency hospital.

COUNT DE BILLY LEADS TO SUCCEED BERENGER

May Have Post of French Envoy Here if He Desires It, Is Paris View.

CHAMBRUN RANKS NEXT

Paris, Nov. 24 (By A. P.).—Three authentic counts today were leading in the field of possible successors to Henry Berenger as French Ambassador to the United States.

The decision of M. Berenger yesterday not to accept reappointment to the post, but to devote his energy toward the realization of the American debt settlement made in his name, has resulted in much speculation in political circles as to his successor, with the three members of the nobility well in the lead.

Count Robert de Billy, Minister to Romania, and a cousin of Count de Billy, member of the French mission to the United States during the war, has precedence as far as the diplomatic service is concerned and will be named if the natural order of promotion is observed.

Count Charles de Chambrun, Minister to Greece and a descendant of Lafayette, is second on the list. He was born in Washington. The third is Count Francois de la Roche, Minister to the United States during the war, and now director of American affairs in the foreign ministry.

It is generally believed Count de Billy will be named if he wants the post and that Count de Chambrun is next in line if de Billy declines the post for promotion, Count de Chambrun is especially favored in some quarters because of his American connections and his knowledge of American conditions.

The new ambassador, it is expected, in any case will be a trained diplomat rather than a politician, candidates for the post from parliamentary circles having become extremely rare because of the stormy reception given here to the Berenger debt settlement.

Woman Applies for Writ.
Mary L. Marshall, 503 Eighteenth street northwest, filed a petition for a writ of mandamus yesterday in circuit court against the District commissioners and John W. Oehman, Inspector of buildings, to compel them to issue her a certificate of occupancy for the Eighteenth street premises which she says is being unlawfully withheld. The house has been used as a delicatessen and cigar store. Attorneys Jones and Hayes appeared for the plaintiff.

THANKSGIVING DAY.

We thank Thee, Lord, that Thou hast given the best in store—A bounty this—We have too much to long for more.

I WONDER whether we are not inclined to forgetfulness in the hurry and scurry of preparation for the Thanksgiving feast. Whether we have not come, these many years, to look upon Thanksgiving as merely a name, possessed of a holiday spirit and giving us a brief respite from the labor of our work-a-day world. But it has seemed to me, in preparing the suggestion for this Thanksgiving, which is our first in the existence of the department, that in our forgetfulness we lose much of the dignity and pleasure of the occasion. Kiddles in school, struggling at the moment with the intricacies of history, will be aware of the hardships endured on that bleak New England coast when that little band of 100 pioneers sought to establish an abiding place of freedom for themselves. Those who were to come after them, and in the effort suffered starvation, illness, death—to at length be rewarded with a full harvest, for which, with a great Thanksgiving, they thanked the God they had ventured forth to worship. We are those who have come after—and it will be a happier occasion, will it not, if we recall that Thanksgiving is more than a matter of elaborate dinners, of guests, of dollars and cents, of pause from labor, and that it is in truth a day set aside for the offering of thanks for the bounty in our land, in our home, in our life, and that our feast so luxurious, compared with the meager feast with which the Pilgrims originated our holiday, should make us commensurate with it, our gratitude.

In planning the day, consideration must be given the labor involved. If we do not have a combination living-dining room, as few of us here in the East do, the table may be arranged fairly early when the actual preparations for the dinner are in progress. It need not be a matter for attention. This is true whether or not our establishment boasts a servant, for the lady of the house will hardly intrust the arrangement of her table decoration to a maid, should she have one, and she will prefer, I am sure, a quiet period of time in which to prepare herself for the occasion rather than a hubbub entailed by last minute table preparations.

As for the table itself, varying are the voices that suggest its attire. Large cloths, say the voices of the day, are no more. One must have individual small covers at each place, a small centerpiece and a shining bare table. Custom has had it in years past that the larger and finer the damask the more luxuriant the effect. And to my mind, the damask table cloth, at least for Thanksgiving and Christmas, damask over a silence cloth, whitely shining in the candle light, with gleaming silver and glass and warm plates. Then have we not an appropriate setting for this turkey for which we have planned and contrived?

And candles there must be. Doubt at times has arisen concerning the appropriateness of candles in the middle of the day. But there need be no concern, for candles are decoration at any time. They may be lighted, of course, before the soup is placed on the table, but they must have time to burn up and give maximum light before the guests assemble at the table.

Whatever we may have planned for decoration to grace the center of the table, will doubtless depend upon our resources—financially, geographically and in the abundance of the country we may not, doubtless will not, be able to provide fresh flowers and our ingenuity will be taxed to the utmost. If flowers are to be had let them be as fresh and dainty as we can manage. Buy them the last thing, and keep them in a cool place, the centerpiece at least, until the last moment. (This does not apply to the flowers for the room of the house, which, once they are arranged and put around, should not be moved out of the warmth into the cold and back again.) Let the candles harmonize with the flowers, although they need not by any manner of means match. And, in arranging the flowers, a delightful effect is attained by allowing little trailing ends of fern to extend out onto the table, whether it be shining damask or shining mahogany. Mixed flowers are attractive when colors are carefully blended. Personally, except in cases where flowers are not to be had, it appeals to me that an orchid, a yellow, a salmon, rose or crimson color scheme is preferable at this time to the usual orange—as we have so recently enjoyed Halloween with its orange decorations.

For the home in the country, for the farmhouse possessed of very different resources, a truly harvest centerpiece may be accomplished delightfully. A pumpkin, round and deep orange, may be cut as we cut orange baskets, with a handle remaining over the top. The basket should be the depth of about half the pumpkin, and the handle arched up and over the top. The pumpkin, largest of the lot, should be the basket part and narrow at the top. Notch the edges all around the basket and with notches slightly more shallow on one side of the handle. And then with a sharp knife go over the entire surface chipping the tough skin as though pieces the size of a quarter were to be removed, only do not remove them, let them stay firmly in place at one side of the cutting and do not cut into the pumpkin. Let any of these petals are apt to be torn off leaving a white spot. The petals will curl up slightly at the edges as they dry a little on up over the handle. And then the whole will look like a great orange basket, as attractive as our well-known horn of plenty. Scrape the inside very clean, of course, and if a bit of dark green oil paper is to be had, line it with it. And then heap it with any kind of fruit in hand, apples, hard pears, figs, dates, nuts, raisins, oranges, a banana, and in among the fruit stick an occasional leaf or branch of leaves, possibly a sprig of holly, and the centerpiece for the country household that finds town shopping difficult to accomplish.

There are few if any more suggestions that we can make. Let the soup be hot, do not forget to fill the glasses before the guests assemble, for in the hurry and concern of gliblet gravy it is easy to forget the ice water. And if by any chance there be wine, take care to fill the glasses clear to the top, for this (aside from poor taste) is to be a day of merrymaking and wine.

Spoon Bread (Southern Dish)

2 cups white corn meal.

2 1/2 cups boiling water (must be boiling).

1 1/2 tablespoons melted butter (or half lard).

1 1/4 teaspoonful salt.

1 1/2 cups milk, buttermilk or slightly sour milk.

1 teaspoonful soda (level).

2 eggs whites.

Pour the boiling water over the corn meal and let stand, after mixing it well, until cool. Then add the butter, salt, yolks partially beaten, and milk with which soda has been mixed. Beat for at least ten minutes and then add whites of eggs beaten stiff and dry. Turn into a well greased baking dish and bake 1 1/2 hours for 40 minutes. Serve immediately. Spoon bread can not stand when it is removed from the oven.

Beet and Sprout Salad.

Remove all imperfect leaves from a bunch of sprouts and soak them in cold salted water for a few hours. Drain and cook in boiling water until tender, drain and chill. Marinate with French dressing. Let stand in a cold place at least an hour. Arrange the sprouts in a mound on crisp lettuce leaves and around them place small pieces of cold cooked beef that have been cut in fancy shapes. Garnish with watercress and top with mayonnaise mixed with a bit of sweet cream. Add a dash of paprika. This salad is excellent for the dinner that we have planned, as it adds what we consider two green vegetables, although one of these vegetables is decidedly red.

And now—a happy and successful day to our friends—a day that is a very real occasion of Thanksgiving for every one.

COLDS THAT DEVELOP INTO PNEUMONIA

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified croscote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is new medical discovery with twofold action: it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth. Of all known drugs, croscote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to croscote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation while the croscote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs. Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist—Adv.

6 YEARS, 6 MONTHS FOR RUFFNER SLAYE

Gerald Dwyer, Newspaper Man, Sentenced to Maximum of 14 Years in Prison.

Special to The Washington Post. New York, Nov. 24.—Gerald M. Dwyer, former newspaper copyreader, was sentenced in general sessions today to State prison for not less than six years and six months nor more than fourteen years for killing Joseph Ruffner, also a newspaperman, outside the latter's home at 209 West Ninety-seventh street on October 3.

Dwyer had called at the apartment in response to a written invitation from Mrs. Gwendolyn Ruffner, but her husband met him in the hall and beat him. Then Dwyer shot him. Dwyer was permitted to plead guilty to manslaughter. Assistant District Attorney Brothers told the court that this plea was based upon the facts of the case, and was not a consideration given the defendant. He said there was no evidence to show intent.

Dwyer's mother was in court to hear her son sentenced. It was her sixty-fifth birthday.

TEMPORARY INSANITY, GIRL SLAYER'S PLEA

Defense of Mrs. Denino Is Indicated When She Is Arraigned.

New York, Nov. 24 (By A. P.).—Temporary insanity will be the defense of Mrs. Catherine Denino, 16-year-old wife and mother, charged with the murder of Luigi Pino, her alleged betrayer and father of her child. Announcement of the nature of the defense was made when Mrs. Denino was arraigned today and entered a plea of not guilty. Ten days were allowed for changing the plea or other motions.

Mrs. Denino when arrested told police that before her marriage to Rocco Denino, of Evanston, Ill., a year ago, Pino had attempted to blackmail her, and when she refused to give him money, wrote to her husband. Denino ordered her from their home as a result of the letter, she said, and she came to New York and shot Pino.

LIQUOR FINE FOR ONE OF GOVERNOR'S PARTY

Other Raided Alabamans Go Free; Servant Alleged to Plead Guilty.

Birmingham, Ala., Nov. 26 (By A. P.).—Charges of violating the prohibition law have been settled in the case which involved Gov. Brandon and eight friends, who were arrested at a fishing camp near Bay Minette, Ala., Monday night, said a member of the party which arrived here tonight. A plea of guilty was entered by one member of the arrested party, a fine was paid and the other cases were not pressed. It was learned.

Which member of the party admitted ownership of the liquor seized was not known here tonight, members declining to make public the name of the so-called "goat" of the raid, which rocked the State with the arrest of the governor.

The report was however, that Henry Hudson, negro servant, had entered a plea of guilty to ownership of the confiscated liquors.

Match what Buick gives Against any other car

When it comes to value for the dollar, Buick welcomes comparisons with any car on earth.

Study the Buick features on this page—here are exhibits of extra value—illustrations of the better way in which Buick builds.

Volume permits Buick cars to be built the way all motor car engineers would like to build theirs—to the highest ideals of quality—not to meet a price.

Compare what Buick offers with any other car; see for yourself why the Greatest Buick Ever Built is the greatest motor car value ever offered.

The Greatest Buick Ever Built

Vacuum Cleaned Crankcase

The Buick Vacuum Ventilator pulls noxious engine fumes out of the crankcase, keeps disagreeable odors out of the car, prevents oil dilution. Only Buick has the Vacuum Ventilator!

Sealed Chassis

Buick is the only car with the Sealed Chassis. This feature protects your investment and cuts operating costs by sealing every operating part inside a dirt-tight, water-tight housing.

Triple-Sealed Engine

Buick halts dirt wherever it could enter the engine. An air cleaner, an oil filter, and a gasoline filter prevent excessive engine wear and save repair bills.

Balanced Wheels

In Buick wheels, the weight of the valve stem is balanced by a counterweight. The result is smoother wheel action—amazing road adhesiveness. Eventually, on all cars—on Buick now!

High-Speed Starting Motor

Instead of the usual starting motor, Buick provides a more powerful one—a faster one. This is another reason why Buicks start so easily, another instance of Buick's better way!

Thermostatic Circulation Control

It warms the Buick engine, from zero to 120°, in less than three minutes. Smooth operation, without waiting for it, in any season. Another instance of Buick's better way.

The Torque-Tube Drive

The better way to transmit the drive of the wheels to the chassis is through a torque tube. The most expensive car built in America uses this drive, and so does Buick.

An Engine Vibrationless Beyond Belief

The 1927 Buick moves without a trace of effort. The engine is vibrationless beyond belief, at every speed. Money can buy no finer performance than this—no matter how much you are willing to spend.

5-Bearing-Surface Steering Gear

Buick's 5-bearing-surface steering gear is the most expensive type used on any motor car. And no car built handles more easily than Buick. Try it and see!

Jet-Black Tires and Jet-Black Rims

One of the smartest undercarriage innovations of the year is Buick's jet-black tires on jet-black rims. They please the eye and add distinction to your car's appearance.

Only 4 Oil Changes a Year

The Buick Oil Filter cleans the oil of dirt. The Vacuum Ventilator prevents dilution. That means only 4 oil changes a year instead of 15 or 20. Buick's better way saves your money.

Automatic Heat Control

Automatic Heat Control is an integral part of the Buick carburetor. It helps to make the Buick engine indifferent to climatic and altitude changes. It aids Buick's easy starting.

4000 Authorized Service Stations

Experienced owners choose the car with better service facilities. And Buick has 4000 highly efficient Authorized Service Stations all over America. You are near one, wherever you drive.

Mechanical 4-Wheel Brakes

Buick pioneered 4-wheel-brakes and selected the mechanical type for better operation and extra safety. There is no liquid in Buick brakes, no rubber hose. Operating parts are drop-forged steel!

Controllable-Beam Headlights

Buick Controllable-Beam Headlights, with thumb control on the steering wheel, add pleasure and safety to driving after dark. Bright lights constantly, without annoyance to other cars. Buick's better way.

Automatic Lubrication

At points where lubrication is sometimes neglected, such as fan hub and universal joint, Buick provides automatic lubrication. And the Buick engine is full-pressure lubricated on every bearing surface.

Wheelbase

There are three Buick wheelbase sizes, 114½ inches, 120 inches and 128 inches. Buick cars are longer and more commodious than other cars which sell for more. Buick volume makes this possible.

Fisher Bodies with VV Windshield

Buick's princely closed bodies are by Fisher. All have the patented VV Windshield, which raises and lowers like a window. All are finished in Coronation Duco Colors, the year's smartest custom effects.

One-Piece, I-Beam Front Axle

Buick uses a one-piece I-beam drop-forged front axle. Buick's better way insures satisfaction.

Cantilever Rear Springs

Use of the Torque Tube instead of the springs to transmit the drive of the rear wheels permits Buick to use Cantilever Rear Springs. These better springs are found also on America's most expensive car.

LEOPOLD LED PRISON

Jailers' Death.

Joliet, Ill., Nov. 24 (By A. P.).—Robert Torres, one of six convicts on trial here for the murder of Deputy Warden Peter Klein during a flight from the new State prison, today through his attorney, declared that Nathan Leopold was the engineer of the escape plot. State's Attorney Rehn, however, has refused consistently to dignify reports that the slayer of Bob Klein was involved, having dismissed the story during the grand jury investigation.

MEXICAN IMBROGLIO
FAILS TO STIR SENATE

been used. An important matter of this kind naturally gives rise to definite and specific contentions. But it does not necessarily follow that we are going to break it.

"There is a difference of view between the two governments as to the effect of Mexico's constitution and laws upon property of Americans. But I do not think the United States will have any ultimatum. Mexico, of course, has the right to have any kind of property system she wants. Our policy is to let Americans have acquired property and find a way to do this.

Has Faith in Mexico.

"I do not believe the matter will be carried to a breaking point between Mexico and Mexico," said Senator Swanson. "When Mexico was recognized and all correspondence and hearings were held by the United States, it was a committee, and the treaty was ratified for the settlement of respective claims between the two countries. It was understood that arrangements had been made by the respective governments that the present vested property and other rights in Mexico of Americans would be respected and that laws that did not do this would be either modified or repealed.

"I believe Mexico will carry out her understandings and keep faith with the conditions under which recognition was accorded," said Senator Swanson. "If Mexico refuses to do this in January, it is time sufficient for the United States to consider what action would be necessary to give proper protection to property and citizens of opinion and to the negotiations."

"The stern action of the State Department is not justified," said Senator Norris.

"We have no right to interfere with religious questions," said Senator Swanson. "If American rights are placed in jeopardy, we might deplore them. If American rights are placed in jeopardy, we might deplore them."

Murders Charged
By Mexican Consul

San Antonio, Tex., Nov. 24 (By A. P.).—Charges that two Mexican nationals have been murdered in Willy County, Tex., in the last three months, that at least one was murdered and that a grand jury investigation of the incident was not legally or properly carried out, are contained in a letter, mailed to the Mexican embassy in Washington, Jose Valenzuela, Mexican vice consul here, announced today.

Mexico City Uncertain
In Land and Oil Dispute

Mexico City, Nov. 24 (By A. P.).—Future developments in the relations between the United States and Mexico are regarded with much uncertainty here. The notes exchanged between the two governments on the question of Mexican land and oil legislation have been the subject of much discussion in Mexico City, but the newspapers and officials generally are withholding their comment until the full text is published.

The belief is held that the situation contains unpleasant elements and that with an air of expectancy the Mexican people are waiting to see what Washington does. The Mexican government remains silent, but observers see no reason to think that it will alter its attitude, but will continue to wait on Washington's next move.

Many American oil and land interests in Mexico will probably refuse to execute the documents and laws which the United States objects as retroactive and confiscatory, will revert to the government January 1 next, unless these documents have been previously executed.

What will happen then? What will Washington do? These are the questions which Mexican newspapers are asking. The Mexican government remains silent, but observers see no reason to think that it will alter its attitude, but will continue to wait on Washington's next move.

By F. W. PATTERSON.

The Federal Reserve system and the banks in general outside the system are playing a vital part in the effort to achieve world stabilization. America has become, almost overnight, a nation of investors in foreign as well as domestic securities. The Federal Reserve system, in an article captioned "A Sound Banking System," its contribution to the November number of Dollars and Sense official publication of Washington chapter, American Institute of Banking, which came off in Washington at the end of last month.

"In mobilizing these funds for investment and then directing them into proper channels, the American banker is faced with the responsibility of corresponding responsibility greater than he ever has known," the Treasury Secretary declared. "He can not be too careful in discharging this responsibility, for he is not only building up a new position for America in world finance, but he is also laying the foundation for that confidence in his ability and integrity on the part of the people which is the basis of the world's financial system."

Boston Tobacco Men
Must Produce Books

Danville, Va., Nov. 24.—Attorneys representing tobacco growers who have pending a suit against officials of the tobacco pool, have secured from Richmond a court mandate requiring the Edmondson Tobacco Co. of South Boston, to produce its books. The suit centers on the profits made by this concern in retying crop tobacco.

F. R. Edmondson, one of three defendants, is reported by the attorney for the plaintiffs to have refused to answer interrogatories on the profits, hence the appeal to the court. This inspection will take place December 1, at which time the other defendants, R. E. Patterson and Tucker Watkins, are expected to be on hand.

Cotton Bags Replace
Jute to Aid Farmers

Wilson, N. C., Nov. 24 (By A. P.).—Manufacturers of fertilizer and other seed products in eastern North Carolina will contribute toward relieving the cotton crisis by using bags for their output instead of jute. In addition a movement has been begun toward obtaining a nationwide use of the cotton bag in the effort to boost the price of the staple by increasing the demand for cotton.

The movement is an outgrowth of a meeting here yesterday of fertilizer manufacturers and cotton-oil men of eastern North Carolina who assembled at the request of the Eastern Carolina chamber of commerce. Resolutions were adopted whereby those attending the meeting pledged themselves to use cotton bags for at least 50 per cent of their products for 1927 and longer if necessary.

WHISKERY BREAKS TRIPLE RECORD AT BOWIE TRACK

Two Course Marks Are Equalled

Whitney Horse Sets New Time After a Poor Start.

Crosswise, Canister Win Third, Fifth in Track Figures.

(Special to The Washington Post.)

BOWIE RACE TRACK, Nov. 24.—Freddie Hopkins set a good 2-year-old record at Bowie this afternoon when he rode Harry Payne Whitney's Whiskery colt, Whiskery, for the Towson purse. This was the feature race of an otherwise ordinary program. Whiskery, a dark bay, 2-year-old, broke the record of 1:30 1/5, clipping four-fifths of a second off the mark established by Bullfinch yesterday. Two other course records were equalled, those falling to Crosswise in the third race and to Canister in the fifth event.

The feature was marked by a lot of rough riding, in which Whiskery was the principal sufferer. In the early stages, and Willie K. in the rundown the backstretch. The start found a majority of the riders whipping and slashing in an effort to get a good position in the run to the dangerous first turn.

Poly was quickest to begin and had a slight advantage over Willie K. Whiskery was in a jam and was buffeted about from one horse to another and all but went down. Workman wisely took his mount to the outside, while Aranda, who rode Willie K., hugged the rail.

In the run down the back stretch, Whiskery moved up on the outside, and rounding the far turn, raced Poly into

First Race Off at 12:45 For Balance of Meet

Post time for the first race at Bowie today, tomorrow and Saturday has been moved ahead to 12:45 o'clock, 15 minutes earlier than on other days of the meeting, it was announced yesterday.

With the Thanksgiving handicap drawing a banner field of thoroughbreds, there is every indication that the largest crowd in the history of the Maryland Agricultural association's track will be on hand when Starter Milton flings the barrier for the 2-year-olds in the opener.

Sarazen, Pennants, Backbone, Joy Smoke and Harry Baker are among the entries for the $10,000 added feature stake.

The Whitney racer drew away to be an easy winner. Aranda made a move at the half mile where he was finally taken to the outside. Willie K. responded with a game effort in the stretch-run and passed all but the winner. The race was a true run one by any means, and the general opinion was that Willie K. was the best horse.

A track record was equalled when Canister, racing for W. J. Owens, the local sportsman, was returned the winner in a severe drive. The 2-year-old of the mile and 70 yards of the fifth event, in which she last failed to get the verdict by a half length over Lodi, one that raced grouped in the Vossell, the early leader, lasted to save the short end of the purse.

In this there were thirteen starters scheduled to perform and without any delay the big field was sent on their way to a good start, although Agnate was away in a tangle and this eliminated his chances. Vossell showed in front rounding the first turn, with Canister at his heels and Red Pennant right alongside and racing strongly.

Canister was full of run and, before reaching the half-mile mark, was showing the way, but had to be urged desperately to last long enough.

The field again came into its own when Formula, one of the four starters made up that section, racing for J. Rotunno, broke out of the maiden ranks in the 5/8 furlong dash that opened the day's sport. Faithful friend of the Audley Farm stable was the victor, beaten three lengths by the place horse, Miss Orie. The race was a true run one by any means, and the general opinion was that Canister was the best horse.

The 5/8 furlong of the second event was productive of a keen tussle. Pillerger, ably handled by the veteran Colletti, was returned the victor by a very brief pace as he was awarded the decision over Everglade, with Lady Glasseen just managing to save third by a neck over Courser. They swung into the main stretch, where the winner fought the lead, but had to be urged to the utmost of his stamina to get the verdict.

The mile and one furlong of the third race brought the cheapest lot of the meeting to the post and for the first time during the day form players cashed when they entered their hopes on W. C. Trotter's Crosswise. He was guided by the scintillating of margins over Mrs. A. Davis's Chief de Ouvre, who, after gaining the lead, failed to stand the long stretch drive and was caught in the last few strides.

One of the saddest sights witnessed as the field paraded to the post was the appearance of Crosswise. The gelding, who hobbled to the post as if on three legs, he being far from being in racing condition.

Canister was full of run and, before reaching the half-mile mark, was showing the way, but had to be urged desperately to last long enough.

The field again came into its own when Formula, one of the four starters made up that section, racing for J. Rotunno, broke out of the maiden ranks in the 5/8 furlong dash that opened the day's sport. Faithful friend of the Audley Farm stable was the victor, beaten three lengths by the place horse, Miss Orie. The race was a true run one by any means, and the general opinion was that Canister was the best horse.

The 5/8 furlong of the second event was productive of a keen tussle. Pillerger, ably handled by the veteran Colletti, was returned the victor by a very brief pace as he was awarded the decision over Everglade, with Lady Glasseen just managing to save third by a neck over Courser. They swung into the main stretch, where the winner fought the lead, but had to be urged to the utmost of his stamina to get the verdict.

The mile and one furlong of the third race brought the cheapest lot of the meeting to the post and for the first time during the day form players cashed when they entered their hopes on W. C. Trotter's Crosswise. He was guided by the scintillating of margins over Mrs. A. Davis's Chief de Ouvre, who, after gaining the lead, failed to stand the long stretch drive and was caught in the last few strides.

One of the saddest sights witnessed as the field paraded to the post was the appearance of Crosswise. The gelding, who hobbled to the post as if on three legs, he being far from being in racing condition.

BONDS DECLINE,
CHECKING RISING MARKETInvestment Funds Continue to Flow Into High Grade Securities.

YOKOHAMA 6S REACH 94

Special to The Washington Post.

New York, Nov. 24 (By the Associated Press).—Selling of Mexican obligations as a result of the threatened crisis in relations between that country and the United States impeded the upward movement of bond prices today, but failed to stop the flow of investment funds into high-grade securities.

The latest downward turn of money rates aroused reports that the Federal reserve reduction charge might be lowered before the end of the year, and this prospect promoted accumulation of good investment bonds. Two of the Treasury issues mounted new high prices, and a large buying movement took place in Liberty bonds.

Aside from declines of 1 to 3 points in Mexican issues, foreign obligations held fairly firm in quiet trading. French and Belgian loans advanced fractionally, and the new Yokohama 6s sold as high as 94—a full point above the offering price.

Another sharp local traction issue was associated with reports of progress on a unified transit plan and proposals for new subway construction. Most of the new issues mounted new high prices, pending more definite reports on October earnings.

Other independent points of strength included the Warner and American Beet Sugar issues, which were aided by the strong market for this product, and Granby Mining 7s, which mounted a new high level for the year, above 146. Booth Fisheries 6s jumped 3 points to par.

PARIS MONEY MARKET.

Paris, Nov. 24 (By A. P.).—Prices were firm on the bourse today. Three per cent rentes, 50 francs 20 centimes. Exchange on London, 138 francs 20 centimes.

Five per cent loan, 56 francs 35 centimes.

The dollar was quoted at 28 francs 50 centimes.

NEW YORK MONEY MARKET.

New York, Nov. 24 (By A. P.).—Call money steady. All loans, 4 1/2% closing bid. Time loans, steady; mixed 60 days, 4 to 5%.

Chicago, Nov. 24 (By the Associated Press).—Active buying simultaneous with Argentine crop damage reports and with unexpected firmness of the Liverpool market carried wheat values upward here today. Chicago closing prices on wheat rose 1/2 to 3/4 cent, and higher, corn 1/2 to 3/4 cent, oats 1/2 to 3/4 cent, and provisions unchanged to 2/3 cent.

Some of the buying which lifted the Chicago wheat market came from calendar traders, a class that bases dealings largely on belief that at various set times of the year the prevailing market trend, as a rule favor a definite market trend.

It so happened that messages today from a leading Argentine wheat producer in Argentina, said that after lifting 200 miles over La Pampa province he found that 6 to 7 bushels of wheat per acre had been lost.

Notwithstanding that other Argentine wheat producers also reported losses, the market was generally favorable and the wheat harvest is in full swing over the northern half of Argentina, with yields weighing 65 to 75 bushels to the bushel, the crop damage reports attracted the greater attention in Chicago.

While expert demand for North American wheat is fairly amounting to 500,000 bushels, and talk of a rail strike in Canada was virtually ignored as improbable.

Likelihood of rain or snow throughout the corn belt gave firmness to the corn market and also to oats.

Provisions reflected the upward swing of grain.

PRELIMINARY MOVE MADE TO BEAUTIFY GROUND AT SCHOOLS

Officials, Board Members and District and Federal Governments Meet.

CONGRESS TO RECEIVE PLAN OF COMMITTEE

Conditions Around New Health Institution Are Disgraceful, Dr. Learned Declares.

A preliminary move to beautify public school grounds in the District with trees, plants, shrubbery and terrace and sloping lawns was made yesterday at a meeting in the Franklin school of school officials, members of the board of education and representatives of the District and national government.

Those participating in the conference were Engineer Commissioner J. Frank Bell, who called the meeting; Maj. L. E. Atkins, assistant to the engineer commissioner; Maj. Carey H. Brown, of the office of the superintendent of public buildings and grounds; H. F. Cameron, secretary of the commission of fine arts; Henry Storey, foreman of the District repair shop; A. L. Harris, municipal architect and James G. Yaden, president of the Federation of Citizens' Associations.

E. C. Graham, president of the board of education, appointed Commissioner Bell, Maj. Atkins, Dr. Frank W. Ballou, superintendent of schools, Mr. Yaden and Dr. H. B. Learned, member of the board of education, as a special committee to report at a future meeting on a concrete working plan which may be presented to Congress.

Beautification of school sites was declared to be a problem of the utmost importance and one that should be worked out immediately.

Money for Buildings. Congress has provided sufficient appropriations under the five-year building program to care for the school needs of the District, so far as housing the students is concerned, but so far has appropriated no funds to apply on beautifying grounds around new buildings.

The grounds around some of the new schools are in disgraceful condition, it was declared. Instead of spacious lawns, shrubbery, plants and trees, the usual sight is bare ground, with improper drainage and other obnoxious features.

Dr. H. B. Learned, chairman of the buildings and grounds committee of the board of education, pointed out the grounds of the new health school on Upshur street near Fourteenth street as a glaring example of the conditions that must be remedied.

This school, Dr. Learned stated, was constructed after much deliberation over its features, with an idea of making it a model health school for the entire United States. The building itself is considered as a model school, Dr. Learned declared, but the grounds are in terrible condition. Instead of spacious lawns and shrubbery, the site is decorated with holes, uneven drainage and hard ground that ruins the other features of the school, he said.

More Ground Urged. Municipal Architect Harris declared school officials should buy more ground around the new school buildings. Each graded school should have at least one entire city block, he said. Junior high schools should be built on sites equivalent to two city blocks, and the senior high schools should have grounds covering 6 and 10 acres, he said.

Some of the high schools have approximately as much ground as Mr. Harris declares necessary, but very few if any of the graded schools have enough ground space declared necessary for the proper recreational activities and health conditions.

Some of the older schools, it was pointed out, do not cover more than one-tenth of a square. This condition not only restricts proper recreational activities but seriously handicaps proper light and air conditions necessary to the health of the pupils, it was pointed out.

Before Congress is asked for appropriations to carry out the project of beautifying the schools, some plan of supervision of the work must be accepted. Many ideas along this line were expressed yesterday.

Dr. Learned expressed the opinion that the work should fall under supervision of the office of the public buildings and grounds. Commissioner Bell, however, declared the work should be handled by a different organization. Maj. Brown, of the office of public buildings and grounds, declared the problem should be worked out under supervision of the schools.

Should Have Architect. James G. Yaden declared the schools should obtain a capable landscape artist and have him cooperate with the municipal architect in planning the beautification of the sites. There is a general sympathetic feeling among members of Congress toward appropriating more money for the maintenance of the public schools, Mr. Yaden declared, and that school officials undoubtedly would have little difficulty in having Congress include appropriations for such work in the next school bill.

Maj. Atkins expressed the belief that the work could be accomplished best by contracting with landscape gardening firms. Municipal Architect Harris declared he had no idea of having a separate official handle the proposition, but rather believed the plan could be worked best if some one with a technical knowledge of plants, flowers and shrubbery worked in conjunction with school officials.

Mr. Harris declared his office had found it impossible to devote any considerable time to the proposition because the time of his office had been taken up completely with building projects.

The fine arts commission will be used under suggestion offered yesterday to aid in suggestions as to the best way to beautify the sites. The problem as it now stands, however, is an open one and no plan will be accepted until the special committee appointed yesterday has had time to act.

THOMAS FILES AGAINST TRUCK DRIVER'S APPEAL

Cites Authority of Congress in Traffic on Sixteenth Street Northwest.

CITY IS HELD POWERLESS

"The purpose of Congress in authorizing and the District government in designing Sixteenth street northwest as a boulevard and arterial highway can not be subverted by the unrestricted use thereof by trucks," according to the brief filed yesterday in the Court of Appeals by Assistant Corporation Counsel E. W. Thomas. Thomas is opposing the appeal of Eston Smallwood from a fine of $10 in traffic court on a charge of driving a heavy truck on Sixteenth street in violation of the traffic regulations.

This case, together with the appeal of the District government in cases involving the use of Sixteenth street by horse-drawn vehicles, is expected to decide not only the validity of such regulations in connection with their alleged arbitrary character, but also to decide the authority of Congress to delegate to the commissioners and the director of traffic the authority to make any regulations pertaining to traffic.

Referring to the regulation prohibiting the use of Sixteenth street by trucks the brief states that "the slow speed of these trucks is such that they would be the cause of congestion and obstruction on arterial highways and boulevards; the purpose of an arterial highway or boulevard is to relieve congestion and lead traffic to the outlying districts and to dispatch it in the least possible time with the least possible danger to persons and other traffic; that Sixteenth street now constructed answers that requirement."

"The ordinance is intended to and does regulate traffic. At the most, it results in a partial exclusion, falling far short of the legal acceptance of prohibition. In the increase of population in rapid proportion there are developed new physical conditions which necessitate regulation and restriction before unknown, and the limiting of the use of motor vehicles on the public highway to promote safety and general welfare has become essentially a function of the police power of regulation."

Attorneys Whiteford and Barger, counsel for Smallwood, contended in their brief that neither the commissioners nor the director of traffic had any legal authority to make any regulation to bar trucks from Sixteenth street and that if they could do that legally they also could rule the trucks off all the streets. The case probably will be argued next month.

MERCHANTS TO LAUNCH CHRISTMAS SALES EARLY

Association Decides to Offer Holiday Stocks to Public Beginning Tomorrow.

ENDS CUSTOM OF YEARS

Washington merchants will place on sale and display their complete stock of Christmas wares beginning tomorrow, as the result of a meeting of the Merchants and Manufacturers association yesterday, at which it was unanimously voted to move forward the date marking the opening of the holiday shopping season.

The action is made possible this year because of earlier shipments received from manufacturers and jobbers of the special merchandise designed to meet the needs of Christmas trade. Edward D. Shattuck, secretary of the association, explained. As a result, he said, stores and warehouse are now well stocked.

In past years it has been the custom of merchants to defer the display of their complete stocks of special Christmas merchandise until early in December. Analysis of past Christmas shopping statistics by the association discloses a remarkable tendency during recent years to make purchases well in advance of the holiday shopping rush. The change is attributed to the energetic campaign launched by women's clubs a few years ago for early Christmas shopping.

CUSTOMERS SOUGHT FOR 1,000 U. S. SHIPS

Question Whether American Flag Will Remain on Seas, O'Connor Says.

(By the Associated Press.) The Shipping Board, with 1,000 ships on its hands, lacks customers to buy them and "it therefore has come down to the question whether it will continue to operate ships in foreign trade or take the American flag from the seas," Chairman O'Connor said yesterday in summarizing the situation confronting the board before making its report to Congress.

O'Connor said he could not foretell what the board would report as to a merchant marine policy. The board just has concluded hearings to determine what the country wanted done with the government's remaining boats. "The hearings have demonstrated that there is no active demand for the carrying out of the merchant marine act calling for the establishment of an American merchant marine on a permanent basis," the chairman said. "Never before in my recollection has there been a more unified feeling that ships to fly the American flag are absolutely necessary to the progress of our commerce, the protection of our farmers and the general welfare of our nation."

Surplus to Cut Debt Favored by Senators

(By the Associated Press.) During a White House call yesterday Senator Watson (Republican), Indiana, said that general sentiment among senators who have reached the Capitol favored applying the Treasury surplus to national debt reduction. The Indiana senator himself favored the plan to credit the money on next year's tax payments.

Senator Watson thought the McNary farm-price stabilization bill would find greater favor among senators than it did at the last session, when it was defeated by a slim margin. He did not believe railroad consolidation would be asked of Congress at the short session.

PRESENT APPRAISAL OF U. S. REALTY WERE ROUSES RATIO FEARS

Auditor's Figures Show Less Than Third of Sum That Congress Votes.

VALUE OF PROPERTY DECLARED TOO LOW

Zihlman Wants Survey to Ascertain What Land Government Owns.

Publication of figures yesterday showing that according to District building estimates the Federal government owns less than one-third of the property here caused apprehension among those who are sponsoring the 60-40 plan of fiscal relationship lest they be seized upon by one of the many arguments against this plan but one in favor of a reduction in the $9,000,000 lump sum contribution.

District Auditor Donovan in making the figures public in response to inquiries explained that while $400,000,000 was used as the appraised value of Federal holdings here, including land, buildings and parks, the figure is much too low. Present-day values would add from one-half to one-third to this figure, he said. Altogether there is, exclusive of streets and other thoroughfares, $1,450,000,000 worth of property here, according to Donovan.

This is more than three and a half times the figure $400,000,000 set for Federal holdings.

$5,000,000 Contribution Sought. Chairman Zihlman, of the House District committee, who has a bill on the House calendar calling for a survey to determine the respective holdings of the two governments, said he was fearful lest the apparent disparity be taken by opponents of the District as an argument against the 60-40 plan.

There is also a determined group in the House seeking to lower the $9,000,000 lump sum contribution to $8,000,000. If the published figures are correct, said Zihlman, then the Federal government with its $9,000,000 contribution is paying more than its proportionate share as this figure is about one-third of the amount which the District raises by taxation.

Zihlman, however, is inclined to agree with Donovan that the $400,000,000 does not represent the present-day value of the government property and it is for this reason that he wants a survey.

It is undoubtedly the figure used by the House appropriations committee, however, in arriving at the size of the lump sum contribution. An impartial survey such as provided in Zihlman's bill should be made, in his opinion, in fairness to both sides of the perennial controversy.

Not Needed, Madden Says. The bill was favorably reported at the last session by Zihlman's committee and is now awaiting action in the next session faced with the determined opposition of Chairman Madden of the appropriations committee. Madden contends that his committee has all the information it wants and that a survey would be superfluous.

Zihlman sharply disagreed with the expressed view that the proposed additional $25,000,000 by the government here to acquire outstanding property south of the city would result in a tax increase. It is true, he said, that when the Federal government buys this property it removes it from local taxation but he said the city has in the meantime developed so greatly in other sections, and the property adjacent to the new Federal acquisitions has been greatly enhanced in value, that the tax rate is unaffected.

If carried to the bitter end, the District developing to its full area and the Federal government continuing to increase its holdings on a larger scale, then the local tax rate might be affected, he suggested, but the disparity between Federal and local holdings will widen rather than narrow, he said.

Salvation Army Home Again Asks Donations

With the Industrial Home crowded to capacity with unfortunate men, and a heavy outside demands for assistance being made upon it, the Salvation Army social service department again finds it necessary to ask for contributions of old clothing and household furniture. Donations of this nature provide paying employment for inmates of the home.

"The stocks have been exhausted and help to 'carry on' is badly needed. No cash is wanted, just those things that have outlived their usefulness to present owners. Clothing of any character, regardless of age or condition, old pieces of furniture, old books, magazines, newspapers and, in fact, almost anything can be used. A telephone call to Main 8023 will be answered promptly."
